Exciting news alert! On Sunday myself and Mrs Wells attended the David Vaisey awards at Cheltenham literacy festival and were delighted that our library has been award first place! The library has been given £4000 to go towards a plethora of exciting projects, from student led book clubs, a brand new manga collection and more dyslexia-friendly books plus - fingers and toes crossed - audio-books for all! Cressida Cowell, author of 'How to train your dragon' gave our the award and spoke about how young people are the most intelligent, creative and full of potential people you will ever meet.
